New free-standing shower joins the KWC Professional spa range

The new free-standing shower made of stainless steel with proven F3 tap technology from KWC Professional also looks good on the beach.

After a dip in the sea, swimming pool or sauna, many spa enthusiasts enjoy the comfort of a direct shower without having to go to the cabins. The new upright shower from KWC Professional made of stainless steel, is perfect for both indoor and outdoor use.

The housing, made of weather-resistant V4A stainless steel (material no. 1.4404), features a minimalist monobody design. A proven, hydraulic F3 self-closing gate valve in a tried-and-tested, piston-free design from the KWC Professional range is integrated into the slim column, which has a stable material thickness of 3 mm and a polished surface. The flow time can be set individually by the operator.

The shower head with a stainless steel base has an anti-limescale system thanks to silicone nozzles. The robust mounting stand allows safe, upright installation with a water connection from below to pre-mixed hot or cold water.

The free-standing shower comes pre-assembled and ready for connection, ensuring a quick and hassle-free installation.
